“ Tom (Junie!), Aiice, brother E.B. and I raised tomatoes on the father's acreage in Norfolk back in the summer of 1946. We were newly-wed couples. It was a memorable time with lots of hard physical work and comraderie. Junie and Alice who were expecting their first baby, Allison became my much-loved brother and sister.. We all managed to live, six or seven of us, in the bungalow with parents T.M. and Blanche and though we had some slim days, there was always singing and laughter. There were always plenty of tomatoes to eat and adventures like sailing a homemade boat on Hampton Roads. Junie was the source of our stability and comedy as well.. He would shout early in the mornings when we had to get up and out there to hoe weeds , "O Boy! It's Morning! ". That sense of humor and his story telling ...we'll never forget. glo.

“ I was so sorry to hear of your Dad's passing.
I met him through your Sister Debbie.

Over the years, I have had the great privilege on knowing several WWII Veterans. They have all had great stories to tell.

The best one I have ever heard was about your Dad, and his friend Ray.

The Gift of a Chocolate Bar and a Pack of Cigarettes dropped to the POW Camp just days after the war was over was such a great gesture. I am sure at the time; they thought it was just a little something they could do for them.

How great was it that some 60 years later he would read in a best-selling book, about the joy that they brought to those POW's that day.

Even better, when he met Louis Zamperini in person at a book signing. Your Dad asking him for his Quarter back for the Cigarettes, as a way of introduction!
(I understand they had a nice conversation later)

Just a great story about one of the nicest men I ever met.
