“ We love you and miss you, Dad. Thank you for letting me wear your uniform hat and pretending that I was a policeman. Thank you for not getting mad at me when I took things apart to see how they worked and I couldn't put them back together again. Thank you for teaching me how to fix things myself. Thank you for all of those dinner table conversations where we debated news and current events. Thank you for trusting me with your cars and boat and introducing me to the Great South Bay. Thank you for all of your support through college, and thank you for being the best man at my wedding. Thank you for being not just my father, but my Dad.
