“ I'm so sorry that I'm just now reading this...I was a volunteer at the VA while Gene was there but because of COVID I haven't been able to see him. I know his birthday is tomorrow so I got to thinking of him. I'm not sure you'll remember me Ray but I will always remember y'all and keep you in my prayers...God bless.

“ Gene was my uncle, my mother Biddie Gilleland's brother. I remember him so well from my childhood days as he always made me feel special. My grandparents, Carl and Earsie Hobbs told me about a most fascinating experience when Gene was serving in the war.

My grandparents had cherished an old round glass clock and displayed it even though it did not run. One day they were so very surprised when they heard a loud chime. They should have been excited; however, my grandmother was suddenly sadden as she interpreted that chime ominously and knew that her son Gene had been injured in Germany. And, that turned out to be true! What a precious bond between mother and son. I hope he knew how much he was loved by his family and pray he will see my sweet grandparents in Heaven.
