“ I am sad to hear about your Father's passing. Uncles are "special" people Uncle Al was one to bring mischief and laughter to family cookouts. He was lots of fun to be around. May you both feel God's comfort and strength today and in the days ahead. God bless your families generously

“ Dear Sharon, Clay, Charlotte, and the entire circle of Al's family n' friends, Clay and Charlotte are longtime friends to both Mindy and me, so we share your grief, grief that is painful, but necessary. Indulge it; it is the price we pay for this lost love, but, too, the measure of that love's impact on our lives. Understanding the hole left behind, regardless the inevitability or forewarning, pray this helps some wee bit to allow and enable that grief! So truly sorry to hear about Al. The loss of such a beloved presence: husband, father, brother, grandfather, friend affects so many of us. At least now he's at peace with our Lord; definitely keepin' y'all in our prayers! When my mother died, even after a years-long battle with cancer, I was shattered by the loss...inconsolable...she was my mentor! I like to think that I got my character from my father, but my mind and its capacity from m'dear sainted mother!!! BUT, "If your faith assures you she's in heaven, then what are the tears all about?!?" I hold eternity dearly close...a cherished, hard-won prize...but, in the interim, that answer lies below. SELFISH TEARS(I Eulogize My Beloved Mother - March, 1989) Today we cry...must admit they're selfish tears. You see...our faith assures your journey's done. But it's not for you we mourn, at all, my dear; It's for those of us you've left behind...alone!!! We share your joy...share your happiness at rest, Your painful fears now for forever stilled. You've fought the good fight, passed the final test, But you've left behind a hole that can't be filled!!! So, until we each rejoin you some someday, And, while your memory buoys us through those years, We'll miss you...but continue on our way, And, from time to time, we'll cry our selfish tears!!! Ray Hamilton (c) March 19, 1989 Our sincerest, loving condolences and prayers,
