“ Sincerest condolences are extended to Doug's family. Doug and I shared a lot of laughter and love of music back in our school days. He was a drummer in our great MUHS Band of the day, and he jammed at home on his set to the Rolling Stones. He was an artist, even an illustrator, as witnessed by the simplest of sketches. He showed me a picture of the Beatles my first time seeing them. In scouts we canoed the Boundary Waters. We didn't keep in touch after graduation but in recent years we exchanged emails. He still liked to listen to live bands in public. I didn't get to see the birds he carved but he told me about them. R.I.P., Doug.
