December 11, 1944 - September 18, 2025

"Bo" Edward Charles Wedge, born December 11, 1944, passed away on September 18, 2025.

Originally from Norwalk, California, Bo later made his home at Lake Norman, North Carolina, where he shared many wonderful years with the love of his life, Gay Lynn Wedge.

A master of his craft, Bo was known as a high-performance engine builder whose skill, precision, and passion left an enduring mark on the automotive world. Beyond his work, he will be remembered for his love of cars, Italian food, tacos, and the joy of engaging, thoughtful conversation with friends.

Bo is survived by his wife Gay Lynn; nephews Charles, Rickie, and Charlie Brammer; nieces Shauna & Chloe Brammer, Diane Christie; and brother-in-Law, Chic Brammer Sr. and by many dear friends who cherished his company. Though he and his loved ones did not practice religion regularly, he was lovingly surrounded by friends and family of faith through his entire life.

Bo's warmth, humor, and devotion to those he loved will forever be missed and remembered. He was a man who lived fully, loved deeply, and left behind a legacy of kindness and connection that will endure in the hearts of all who knew him.

“ I am so sorry to see this posting of the passing of Bo. I met Bo a long time ago in Riverside, CA. Bo and my husband Bob became the best of friends and spent many hours together watching and talking NASCAR. He was the best sprites Uncke to our three boys. I'm now sure that they are both in Heaven waiting for us to join them. RIP Bo until I see you again. My condolences to the family and all my love to Gay!
