“Mrs. Mott was one of the best teachers I ever had. She made her classes fun and inspiring. Even at 72 I remember her reciting the witches scene from Shakespeare. I was so entranced. My condolences to you, her family and close friends.

“Of three superb teachers I experienced at North Meck, she was the pinnacle, and equal of three superb professors at NCSU. She taught AP English which I was fortunate to experience for two years, and they remain with me to this day.

Having reconnected with her 10 years ago, I was surprised to see her taken aback when I said (notwithstanding the often used description) that she truly made a difference. I think she was being modest because, surely, she had heard that many times from so many who also loved her.

In class, she was strong, demanding, and fair, all of which were encompassed by humor, compassion, and perceptive intelligence. I loved her then, and have done so ever since. I will continue that love forever.

“A quintessential southern lady. Charming and graceful dignified and classy. A brilliant mind and a keen wit and sense of humor. She was respected and loved by many as a teacher and served her family with distinction during her time as our Matriarch. Fiercely independent and loyal. Till we see you again... we will miss the laughs, the lessons, your letters, and your love. What a difference you made in our lives!

“ Everyone has that one special teacher....

Estelle Mott was that teacher for me. I was in her Women in Literature class. I was also her student assistant. Through bumpy family times in my life, she was there. Through the years, we wrote, we visited....

She came to Hickory for my first wedding in 1980. I still have the very special note and gift she gave me. My last visits were in Davidson - for coffee at Starbucks and at the Pines where she allowed me to sit in on her bridge game. We spoke of our love of reading. We spoke of living on the same street in Mooresville many years ago. We spoke of the time she wanted to open her home to me.

I admired Mrs. Mott. She taught; raised two sons; achieved her Masters degree....much of this as a young widowed woman. She was passionate and caring. I will always remember her face full of expression and caring.

She was a true treasure. My life was deeply blessed by her presence in it.

“ Mrs. Mott was my 12th grade English (British Lit) teacher. I remember her fondly. She shared keen knowledge and exuberant passion during every class. I remember her dipping her head right in front of our faces on numerous occasions to make a dramatic point about a certain work. Her eyes would sparkle she waxed eloquent about various authors. Grateful to have had her as a teacher. She was hard but fair! I bumped into her at SouthPark Mall in the 90's. That is the last time I saw her.

Blessing and prayers to all of you family members and close friends as you mourn her loss.
