“Dad, First off I want to thank you for everything you taught me to be and not to be as an adult. You were my role model regardless of your upbringing and I am who I am because of you. Hell some would say I am you. I bite my nails and I have a gnarly temper. But I also love fast and love strong !! I remember us playing baseball and other sports and playing NASCAR video games till the wee hours of the night. I made sure to always come to your house when I was in town. It was a necessity to be honest. I had to call you on Fathers Day and your birthday !!! You're gone now and for some reason it hasn't hit me. I regret not talking to you more often it was just really hard to talk to you knowing you're in the worst pain of your life and couldn't hear our conversation at all. I'm not completely okay with how you ended your life or even why. Why you would write me and email then send me a text telling me to check my email.... Made no sense to me and I'll never agree with it. I'm so sorry 😞 ... I will miss you forever and ever!! I want you to dance up there and finally be with your mother and baloo. Ill see you when I see you. Please watch over everyone !!!

Love ❤️ Bran

“ Freddie will forever be in my memories. We had known each other since we were teenagers. We reconnected and stayed very close friends but now he is gone forever. My heart is so broken. 💔😭 I want to especially wish my friend Barry and Freddie's children, Bran (Jess), Carrie and Zach my deepest condolences and prayers. 🙏 I also want to issue prayers for his very special close friend, Janice and his longtime friend Kent. He loved and missed his dog Baloo and hopefully they are reunited. I know he was excited to be reunited with his Mom as well. May his body be out of pain and his soul rest in peace forever. ❤️
