“Jacker”, I think my first memory of you was you and Lee riding your bikes on your porch in Norfolk (Lee leading, of course, and you following everyone of her instructions; y'all visits with grandmother and Robbie (who loved you both so dearly); going to the drugstore where you could get candy and ice cream; visiting y'all in Maryland where you took Robert out in the front yard and tossed a football with him; your tales of traveling in a car with your mom and what she made you use to go to the bathroom; the parties you and Lee had at your house in Virginia Beach when your mom was away; your deep love and devotion to Elon; our visits to your house in Mooresville; and most importantly, how special you made Jay feel (who you always said he was the best thing to happen to our family)! Jay and I will light a candle, put pictures of you on the dining room table, and say, "I love you, Jack" everytime we pass by. Until we meet in heaven, my favorite nephew. We love you, Gail, Jay, and Emory (our beloved and spoiled rescue dog)
