“ I remember when I first met him.. I didn't say anything at first because I was new and I was having a rough day and I just wasn't in the mood to talk .. but suddenly when I was walking to the busses..when I got on the bus.. I sat in his spot on accident! I didn't know the spot was his until the bus driver made us switch spots, And out of no where we became friends! He would always wave to me and my sisters in the neighborhood, he would stop by and chat, he was in my math class being his usual funny self.. I didn't appreciate him as much as I should have. Never would I have ever thought that a special someone.. could go just like that.. I wish I could start over and be a better person to him. He was the most caring, kindhearted, funny, and outgoing person I have ever met and I hate that he's gone. He deserves to be here.. with us.. but .. god gave us to him as a gift. You could tell Kaleb was an angel, he was built that way, god decided to take his angel back home and stay home for eternity.. he was such a rare thing, He's irreplaceable. No one can replace him. It's so unfair.. :(

I'm so mad at myself for not being a better friend to him and treating him as kind as I should have because he was one of a kind.. I'm gonna be sad for a while and I'm so so filled up with anger and I'm devastated but I know he's happy and he's able to do anything he's ever dreamed of

I remember wen we were in sixth grade and he gave me the milk I dropped I thought nothing of it then I realized in seventh grade he was nervous to talk to me cause he liked me I liked him to I didnt tell them I loved them but i did he used to make jokes oh i like you i was joking oh yeah i 'like you to' i atchley did so did he apparently is what he had told me but we talked whole year then 8th grade I didnt see him at all but I never frogot how he was my real first love he had told my friend that year wen she was on the phone with me hey you know how I used to like her idk how to feel anymore but i still liked him a year later both dated people beinging of nith I said i know you he said same then i ask him if he's single he took to long to reply so i left he ran up to me and said yes then i did nothing but drop hints I figure out a few months later he wanted me to say that I liked him but we flirted till december wen my friend told him to add me on a app he did and he said he wanted to out with me and I told him i liked him to and the same night we said we loved eachother witch I already had since 6th grade 5 months later we had a messy break up but still talked as friends but I still tell him I love him and if I was over him or not or the people that we were dating at the time I had hope we get back toghether if people were not so mean but I loved him for five years and that will now never go no matter what he meant alot to me and I dont think I could ever love soomeone the same way he used to play mincraft with me aftier broken up but I still loved him there was no diffrence for the five years over 1000 memories hes been the greatist person ive ever meant he meant the world to me.
