“Matthew R00STER and I met in an online game called King of Avalon a year ago. We connected deeply in a short period of time, not only in game but in real life. We communicated daily in text messages, hours of phone conversations and spend many hours in video chat. We became a big and important part of each others life, and were looking forward to meeting face-to-face. I will cherish the time I was blessed with his love, care and presence and will carry Matthew and his family in my heart forever. I know we will meet again.
