“ I just found out yesterday about your passing my heart is broken I know me and you did not speak anymore but we did spend seven years of our life together most of them were wonderful you had your problems but I still loved you through it all I know you were struggling and you were doing great for quite some time I’m not sure as to what exactly happened but I know you are living in the sky now and at peace you will always be a piece of me and I will never forget all the years we spent together fly high angel until we meet again....
