“ Good old dude here. It's a shame and a loss. Often misunderstood or whatever but never could find a fella more eager to help someone out. We never were too close but in all my dealings with him Mike was as solid as they come. I hate things went like they did, bubba. Rest easy!!

“ I met Michael in 2016, and it was an instant bond between us. He and I became really close friends, and though we drifted apart the last couple of years, I'll always love him and cherish the memories we've shared. He taught me how to fish, we spent hours, sometimes even while sleeping, on the phone video calling or voice talking. Somewhere around here I even still have a flower he picked for me from in the woods of his old house in Harmony. I'm truly going to miss him and his loud crazy personality. He always tried to seem like such tough guy but was easily one of the sweetest and kindest men I've ever met. If I had known the last time I was visiting would be my last time seeing him, I'd have held him longer and tighter. He truly was my most favorite Dork. Rest in Peace, Mike, and know that you'll always hold that special place in my heart.
