“ The world lost an angel this week. Rafael was a gentle and sweet man who's humor was infectious. He was a wonderful husband to my friend, Jaime... He was the clown who kept us all laughing. All who met Raf and knew him, were left with a deep impression of a guy who many fell in love with. We will miss you, but we are all so much better to have known you.

“ Rafael, words can't explain how much you will be missed. I appreciate and value the times we had together and will always consider you as a brother. You will always be remembered as great chef and even greater person. I have so many great memories of us laughing & joking (and yes, even arguing!) but the best memories I have are of us working together as a team, a great team. Yes, I know it's been a while since then and life has taken us in different directions, with several miles between us, however, you still remained as that special unique individual I met years ago. I will continue to share our experiences growing up in the kitchen together and will always cherish them. Rafael may your rest in peace my brother, until we meet again.
