“ A lot of u may not know me, but my name is Joshua dean, Bobby Taylor is one of my best friends and I consider his family my family as well. So let me begin with telling yall a little bit about how I met Richard. I remember years ago when Bobby and i worked at Lowes way back in the good ole days, I remember he used to drive by bobby and i when we were out in the parking doing push ups and basically using the cart corrals as our gym and he would slow down with a smile on his face, lean out the his window and say "u guys better get back to work and stop playing" then drive off laughing which always cracked me up cus he is such a funny guy. I also remember a time when I came over to the house and I was helping him unload something and we both starting just shootin shit joking around, he would be like "u a Rockstar yet?" and i would just laugh and be like "I don't know, u see my limo out front yet lol". I tell ya what, every conversation I had ever had with Richard was always so funny and we would carry on conversations for awhile cus boy he would like to talk, but i enjoyed every second of it cus he was a really cool dude. I even remember one other time, when he dropped Bobby off at my place to game it up for the nite, that Bobby was like "crap I forgot something at home" so he called his dad that had already got back home from dropping him off to see if he could bring it to him and he straight up got back in his vehicle with whatever Bobby asked for..wasnt mad or irritated at all, but was willing to drive all the way back to my house to get it to him with a smile upon his face.....that right there shows that Bobby dad would go above and beyond for his family no matter what! I know its hard to believe that now he is is no longer with us, but i don't believe for one second that he is gone forever. Instead, he now lives on through all the great memories that we all had the chance to share together, and like they always say...memories never die, they live on through all our hearts and soul forever until all our friends and family are united back together once again.

Richard, I know u are up there watching over all your friends and family, all I ask...is if u don't start that party without us. We are all going to miss u brother, RIP
