“ Oh, Ron and Vickie, I am so sorry about Sandy. I saw the notice in the paper but just wasn't sure it could be her. Then I was just reading the Tribune and clicked on the obituary and as soon as I saw her picture I knew she was your Sandy. She looked just like I remember you, Vickie. I saw Ron at Ronnie's service and kept thinking I would get to stop at the Chic-fi-la but didn't get by there. We lived 2 houses behind you in Charlotte, beside Jan & Bill. Lori died May 1 so I know this is a difficult time for you all. Please know that we are thinking of you all and that you are in our thoughts and prayers.

“ Sandy, you lit up our world, through your positive outlook on life or the love of a certain actor or two. You always made me feel special, and your heart was bigger than the ocean. I doubt you ever realised the impact you had on our lives, and I can only imagine the hole that has been left in your families lives. Your fandom family will always love and miss you. Fly high angel, and shine down on us all.

“ Sandy was such a light in this world. I hope you find comfort in the fact she touched so many with her eternal optimism and kind heart. While I never got to hug her, which I will forever regret, I will forever be warmed by her spirit and memory. My thoughts and prayers are with you all during this time.

“ Sandy, you were the person most people wanted to become. Your kinds words meant so much to so many. Facebook and the Twilight fandom lost a major component. My thoughts and prayers are with your family and friends.

“ Sandy. We became friends through the Twilight fandom and never had a chance to meet face to face. However, through your daily posts and never ending optimism and cheer, you kept me going on days that I just needed to know someone cared. You did. It never mattered how rough and bumpy your life was, you always took the time to let us know we were loved. That is a true definition of grace. Thank you for gracing us with your humor, your love and just being you! You brought a smile to my face at least once a day! If you ever have the privilege to meet someone that you consider to be an angel on earth, Sandy met that description. You are missed and loved deeply!

“ Sandy you will be greatly missed. I only knew Sandy through facebook and the Twilight fandom. She always put a smile on my face either by talking about Rob, or the latest epsiode of Outlander. But her biggest best asset was being a mother. I feel like Stevie is just as much apart of our fandom as her mother was. Always in my heart and in my prayers I wish Stevie and the rest of Sandy's family the strength to get through the coming days, weeks, years as best as they can.
