“ I don't have to tell anyone what a great person Shelby Jean Hewell was. She was the best Mom, Maw Maw, friend and sister that we could ever have. She loved her family and was always there for us.

My mom was the strongest person I've ever known. She endured her fair share of hardships and losses. She suffered with a debilitating illness for years that robbed her of her independence and ability to do the things she truly enjoyed doing like spending time outdoors, cooking, going out to suppers with family, and especially playing with her grandson. But through it all, she never quit. She never gave up. She never lost her spirit. She fought every day of her life to be here for her family, to provide friendship and love, an ear to listen, a shoulder to cry on, advice and comfort. And sometimes she provided a much needed reality check when we maybe couldn't see it ourselves.

She was my Rock. But she was a lot of people's Rock. She has always been there for me and everyone in this family many times over providing support and unconditional love that we will be forever grateful for. And that truly is her legacy. Being there for her family.

She has taught me so much about how to love and how to be there for others. She has taught me how to be trustworthy, responsible, and accountable and how to take care of my family. And she taught me to pass on those values that she lived her life by, that she instilled in me and that our son will one day pass on to his kids.

While it has been hard to lose her, I know that she is in Heaven now with her Lord and Savior. I'm comforted knowing she's surrounded by family and friends and no longer struggling with this terrible illness.

Mom, Thank You for being my best friend, for the happiness and love you've provided my entire life. I will always be proud and honored to call you my Mom. I will love you, think about you and miss you every day for the rest of my life. Until we meet again, I love you and I will hold you in my heart always.

*Love,
Max*

Thank you Misha & Butch. You guys have always been such thoughtful and wonderful friends. I talked to her often about friends and coworkers who didn't know her personally, but took the time to ask about her and send well wishes and she very much appreciated that.
